No. 1272. Price $4.00
Tucks of varying widths; crepe covered ball buttons on front and cuffs, and hemstitching unparingly used, give tone and character to this very desirable model. Developed of a fine all silk Crepe de Chine.

THE REASON

THROUGH the co-operation of several good stores with a maker of fine Blouses, are the remarkable values possible. The orders were placed by the retailers early—permitting the manufacturer in turn, to then place his order with the mill, and both because of his large quantity purchase and the time at which the purchase was made, the price paid for the silk represented a tremendous saving. Then, too, the method of manufacture greatly reduced the making cost—and the selling costs are entirely eliminated. All of these savings have gone into the Waists—and the prices quoted are radically under what the Waists would sell for if bought in the usual way.
